V. An Extract of an other Letter from Mr. James Yonge, upon the ſame ſubjects as the former.

Honoured Sir,

THE Anomalar Blackneſs of the Girl's Face, of which I ſent the Hiſtory, is now divided into a few dark, clowdy Specks; which appear but ſeldom, and nothing ſo livid as formerly.

I am told by a Gentleman Hunter, that he lately found in the Paunch of an Hare, two full grown young Ones among the Bowels; but almoſt rotten: And three Immature Embryo's in the Uterus. The former were certainly Fœtus broke out of the Womb, &c.

Plimouth, Nov. 1.
1709.

Moſt Worthy Sir,

Yours, &c.

James Yonge.
